

THE ISLAND EXPRESSION OF THE FINE WINES FROM PROVENCE

Porquerolles, an island. Cast off the ordinary. Even ashore, sea is always present, as the freshness of the spray forms a blissful union with the scents of the pine grove. The historic vineyard is bathed in light and derives its distinctive taste from the glistening crust of the thousand-year-old shales, on which the tender night sprinkles dew drops. Now owned by CHANEL, Domaine de l'Ile produces wine formed by island soil, loving sun and invigorating wind.

A FAMILY AND AN ISLAND

François-Joseph Fournier bought the island as a wedding gift for his beautiful young wife, Sylvia. He spent his life dedicated to turning the island into a paradise. Over the years, it passed down to their great grandson, Sébastien Le Ber.

2021 ROSÉ

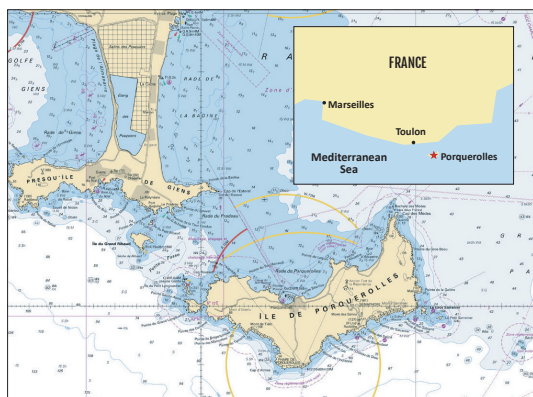

Composition

31% Mourvèdre, 29% Cinsault, 20% Syrah, 15% Grenache, 5% Tibouren

Tasting Notes

The 2021 Rosé displays a luminous pale pink color. Bright strawberry, raspberry and grenadine aromas are invigorated by hints of pink grapefruit notes from the Cinsault. On the palate, red berry flavors are joined by rich red cherry from the Mourvèdre and notes of blackcurrant and spice from the Syrah, leading to a long, refreshing finish with touches of saline.

A PRESERVED NATURAL SPACE

The island of Porquerolles and the sea surrounding it are protected, listed areas. Lying in the heart of a protected national park, Domaine de l'Ile follows agro-ecological initiatives and preserves biodiversity. Thanks to Sébastien Le Ber's hard work, in 2015 the vineyards were certified organic. And in 2019, after many fulfilling years as a wine producer, Sébastien is entrusting this heritage to CHANEL, thereby opening a new chapter in the story of Domaine de l'Ile.
